“ My Dad was my hero and mentor. He taught me how important it was for a man to work hard and provide for my family. He taught me to put others first and there was no room for selfishness. One of the last things he said to me was “I just have to do my share” . I’m here to say Dad did more than his share everyday of his life. We all hope we can leave a mark on others while we are here on earth. Dad left his mark with kindness, laughter, honesty, and hard work. I will always strive to live up to the legacy Dad left. And Dad.. your work here is finished and you did your share!

“ Robert was such a great Soul! i remember being a newlywed, Not speaking English very well. A Northerner in the South. Eugene had to leave to go to Moody AFB to get us a place to live. So i stayed with you . Myriam was expecting any day! While she was in the Hospital, i was going to help Robert get his breakfast in the morning. Biscuit and Grits of course, But i had never seen grits or biscuits, I did my best, but was not very successful. Thank Goodness for biscuit in a can! He was out to work at the crack of dawn. But Robert never complained he was always very courteous. I sill see him now in the kitchen . What a great memory for me. But i did become a southerner, He really showed me how to live a good life. God Bless his soul !!

“ Robert was such a kind, special man. I have so many great memories of him from my childhood. I remember helping him feed his dogs. I remember playing in his shed while he worked on who knows what. He was always smiling and could give you a look with a twinkle in his eyes that said, without words, that he thought you were being silly or just ridiculous. I loved his laugh, which he so readily shared. Robert gave me a gift when I was born that I still have today- my very favorite baby doll. The story goes that he was working and found this doll that someone had thrown away. He cleaned it up and gave it to me as an infant. How I treasured that doll! It always made me so happy that, in my childish mind, Robert valiantly rescued her and gave her to me. I still have that precious gift, 49 years later.

The news of Robert's death is so devastating. I think of all of the time I had to go and visit and didn't do it because I was so busy with life. What a loss for me, that I missed out on hearing his laughter and seeing that twinkle in his eyes again. I'm so happy that he had such a beautiful, loving family who were able to enjoy those precious times with him. I know you are all just completely brokenhearted over losing him. I am so very sorry that he is gone. You are all etched in my memories, in a place deep in my heart, so special that it helped form who I am today. I love you all.
